through the use of style and design. Thus the importance in having a space you can call your own, your personal haven. While traveling the world, we see how many different cultures interpret their version of their home. What I love about Canada is that we are one of the few countries where you will find a mixture of different cultures all within one design. We love to mix and match and bring our worldly experiences back home. I like to think Canadians are rich in culture.

I am a big believer in design being a personal experience. I have an art piece that hangs proudly over my Barcelona sofa in my front room which I love. I am not sure what exactly about the painting draws me in but I can stare at it for hours at a time. Possibly the abstract trees remind me of my childhood adventures at the cottage where the weekdays and weekends blended together or perhaps it is my astonishment for the artist's freedom of expression. To me, that's what ties the design of my space together but not because the painting fits into my colour scheme and design concept but rather as it tugs at the strings of my soul. When I look at the painting, I think "That's me in a nutshell – Unique, warm, sophisticated, cultured, with a dab of humour, and a passion for life."

I encourage you, the reader to find your "piece of art" - What makes your heart tick. Once you find that piece, integrate it into your design concept. That's what life is all about - Passion.

Have you ever wondered if one person can make a difference in the world? The world is vast and filled with plenty of people from different walks of life which have shaped their characters into the individuals they are today. I see design as an expression of one's style and personality. I love to see how one's experiences have changed and altered their lives thus altering their personal design style.

Canadian Home Trends Magazine is not only helping you design your home; it is helping you express your walk of life

Matt Dusk gives the world music by being a great singer. Stylistically, Matt has developed a sound that is the combination of original songs with the qualities of the swing/jazz era of the forties to the sixties. It is no wonder that he was attracted to a home that has the architecture of that same time period. My job was to find a way of honouring the shape of the space and give it a contemporary twist. What would the great crooners of the past, (Tony Bennett, Mr. Sinatra etc.) select if they were in the height of their careers today? Iridescent wallpaper combined with hardwood floors, leather insets and silk draperies, a super comfortable bed and wall mount light fixtures with an upscale hotel look but shaped in a contemporary way and result the desired Modern retro, which makes this room completely in line with who Matt is, an original contemporary artist heavily influenced by tradition. - Text by Glen Peloso
